INTRODUCTION

This genealogical index of the records of the Society of Colorado Pioneers, although it is not large and is not a subject index, supplies vital statistics for the nineteenth century, a period during which data is not readily available. It is not meant to be a substitute for documentation. Instead, the data included can serve as a guide for locating primary or secondary source materials or collecting preponderant evidence.

The collection of the records of the Society of Colorado Pioneers, in the Manuscript Collection, Western History Department of the Denver Public Library, consists of the Register and Volumes 1A, 1, 2, 3 and 4. Volume 1A was acquired on 19 October 1950 and the Register and Volumes 1-4 on 6 February 1959.

An unalphabetized index to the secretary's original Register of members of the society, including genealogical data, was compiled by Maria Davies McGrath in the 1920s. McGrath was a Colorado pioneer historian and member of the Colorado Pioneer Women's Society and Pioneer Men and Women of Colorado Society. Copies are held by the Genealogy and Western History Departments of the Denver Public Library, and the Stephen Hart Library of the Colorado State Historical Society. This new Genealogical Index includes all of the pioneers listed by McGrath with additional genealogical data, plus an everyname index to the entire collection of Register and Minute Books.

The original 58 page hand-written secretary's copy of the Register of the Society of Colorado Pioneers contains the names of nearly 1200 pioneers, their date and place of birth, date of arrival in the Colorado gold region, and place of residence at the time of admittance into the Society. Subsequent secretaries of the society added dates and places of death when known. The earliest entry in the Register is 1872 and the latest 1922.

In 1940, the Register was saved from destruction by Mrs. McGrath and given to Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Draper for safe-keeping and preservation. The Drapers arranged for it to be placed in a handsome 14 ½" and 16 ½" blue leather case lettered in gold leaf.

Volume 1A, a 256 page blue cloth-bound book with blue leather corners and spine, contains the Organization, Proceedings, Constitution, By-Laws and Roll of Members of the Society of Colorado Pioneers.

Minutes of meetings 5 February 1872, 14 February 1872, March 1876 and 5 December 1884 are on pages 14 to 73; and the minutes of meetings 13 January 1941 to 27 February 1943 are on pages 83-121.

The Constitution, adopted 14 January 1872, appears on pages 3-5, and the By-Laws on pages 6-7. The Articles of Incorporation, filed for record 14 July 1884, appear on pages 64-66.

Miscellaneous receipts for expenditures and accounting notations for the years 1872, 1876 and 1881 are attached to page 256, together with an undated list of officers and members giving arrival dates and occupations or other personal items about some of the men listed.

Lists of members compiled at the time members paid their dues, are found on pages 7-13, 29, 30, 39-49, and 75-79. In some cases dates and places of birth, arrival dates, and residence are given. Many names appear to be the personal signatures of the members, as opposed to those which were entered into the Register by the secretary. Pioneers of the St. Vrain and Lower Boulder Valley Societies are listed on pages 134-138.

Pages 124-133, 140-238, and 240-255 are unused.

Volume 1 contains the Minutes from 16 January 1885 to 24 June 1896; 432 pages. Volume 2 contains the Minutes from 25 June 1896 to 2 October 1905; 401 pages. Volume 3 contains the Minutes from 1 November 1905 to 2 May 1914; 200 pages. Volume 4 contains the Minutes from 1 June 1914 to 28 December 1940; 397 pages.

The Genealogical Index to the Records of the Society of Colorado Pioneers is an everyname index. Names are recorded as they were spelled, except where researchers determined the correct spelling of a surname. For example, the entries for Reithmann, Riethman, Riethmann and Reithman were initially recorded separately. After research showed the first spelling to be correct, the latter three spellings were discarded and the page numbers extracted for each were assigned to Reithmann. In other cases, the secretary's spellings, if obviously incorrect, were changed at the time of extraction.

A common surname – for example, Jones – occurring with no given name, no initials, and no designation as to sex is indexed as "Jones, --." If a surname occurs with "Mr." or in a list of "Messieurs," as opposed to a list of Madams" or Mesdames," it is indexed as "Jones, --, Mr." There might also have been an L. Jones, L. W. Jones, Leonard Jones or Leonard W. Jones. Unless other entries suggested these were not all the same Jones, "L", "L. W." and "Leonard" were entered under "Leonard W. Jones." The Clips and Photograph collections in the Western History Department, which contain miscellaneous references to Society members pre-1900, were particularly helpful in identifying members and determining the spelling of their names.

Problems often arose in deciphering handwriting. Several resources were available to assist in identification. The most frequently consulted were Maria Davies McGrath, Men Who Arrived in What is Now Colorado Prior to January 1, 1861 and Women Who Arrived in What is Now Colorado Prior to January 1, 1861. Colorado Pioneers in Picture and Story by Alice Polk Hill (1915) and Henrietta Bromwell's The Real Pioneers of Colorado and Fifty-Niner's Directory: Colorado Argonauts of 1858-1859 were also indispensable. Full citations for these works can be found in the Bibliography. The General Index in the Western History Department and the collections of Denver City Directories in the Social Science/Genealogy Department of the Denver Public Library were other invaluable resources. No names were omitted because of difficulty in their identification.

Titles were not used except abbreviations for Reverend (Rev) and other religious titles, and Miss for unmarried females. Filiations used are "dau" for daughter, "sis" for sister, “sis-in-law” for sister-in-law, “hus” for husband, “bro” for brother, and “bro-in-law” for brother-in-law.

Each of the six volumes is represented in the index as follows:

- * Designates the original Register of the Society of Colorado Pioneers kept by the Secretary. The * is followed immediately by the page number. There is no colon or semi-colon between the asterisk and the page number(s). An example is *34.
- 1A Book 1A. A colon separates the volume designation and the page numbers. An example is 1A:4, 10, 325.

The remainder of the volumes, Books 1, 2, 3 and 4, are designated as 1, 2, 3 and 4, each with a colon separating the volume designation and the page number(s). Examples are 1:3, 2:5, 3:7, and 4:9

Other descriptors are Benevolent Payments, Membership Status, Memorial, and Officer. Examples are as follows:

Benevolent Payments 90-175 is a notation that the person received monthly financial assistance and is mentioned frequently between pages 90-175 only for that reason. If the person is cited for other reasons, the page number(s) is recorded separately.

Membership Status, other than regular membership, could be Life or Honorary, and appears under the member’s name.

Memorials were written by Society members upon the death of one of the members. They were submitted to the local newspapers and were recorded in the minutes. Memorials are noted within parentheses with the page number following.

Officer’s names appear on nearly every page of the records throughout his term of office, usually observing only his absence or attendance. No page numbers are provided in the Index; however, since an absence or attendance may be significant to a genealogist, Appendix B lists the officers by year, book and page for easy location in the records.

Special abbreviations are used for salient genealogical data:

- DOB Date of Birth
- POB Place of Birth
- DOM Date of Marriage
- POM Place of Marriage

BACKGROUND:
THE SOCIETY OF COLORADO PIONEERS

From the time they began to penetrate the western reaches of the North American continent, traders and trappers, members of military, and surveying expeditions to the Rocky Mountains knew of the existence of gold in the head streams of the Arkansas and South Platte rivers. California-bound prospectors by the 1850s, wending their way across what had once been denounced as the Great American Desert, unfit for habitation by man and beast, panned for gold along the way. Yet, it was not until 1858 that a party of gold seekers, including Cherokee Indians, organized in Georgia by William Green Russell, made the first serious attempt to locate major deposits in the Rocky Mountain region. Other parties, having heard the rumors, were close upon their heels. By the time winter was upon them, the few who elected to remain until spring at the confluence of the Cherry Creek and the South Platte rivers, had platted the towns of Auraria and Denver City. Before the first buds of spring bloomed, eager prospectors, on horseback, on foot, driving covered wagons or pushing hand-carts, crowded the routes to the gold fields. The last great American frontier was being invaded.

More than gold brought many of the first settlers. There were political and economic reasons which affected the promotion of this heretofore maligned territory. Colonel William Gilpin, in an address delivered on 15 November 1858 to the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, exclaimed, "The great need [is] to populate the central part of the continent." Gilpin, later the Governor of Colorado, urged the nation to open a track to the "other sea" and the "oriental shore," and promised America would become "leaders of the world."¹

The population of the western reaches of Territorial Kansas, today the State of Colorado, would also establish a new, solid political base. With the thunderclouds of the Civil War gathering, this would benefit the industrial North by safeguarding its balance of power against the agricultural South. The financial depression of the 1850s was another critical factor.

By late summer, 1858, newspapers were devoting a great deal of space to news from the Pikes Peak gold fields, drawing the attention of the public to the reports with emotion packed headlines. No major gold deposit had been discovered, but thousands of men caught "gold fever."

"Go West, young man, Go West,

¹Guide to the Kansas Gold Mines at Pike's Peak (Cincinnati: E. Mendenhall, Publisher, 1859.)

Notes of Captain J. W. Gunnison, Topographical Engineer, describing the routes and camping places, and suggesting tools, mining outfits, provisions and camp fixtures and includes a map and Table of Distances. The address on the new gold mines delivered by Colonel William Gilpin of Independence, Missouri sponsored by the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, 15 November 1858, was also reprinted in the Guide.

Was the call of long ago—
Go start for yourself a world anew,
Where you can brawn and courage brew.
Go start a world that is ever young,
And build your cities where buffalos run.”²

And so, inspired by greed and adventure and anxious to avoid possible combat, thousands packed their picks, shovels, plows and families and headed for the gold fields of Colorado. We, who watched man hurl himself into space, should not be surprised to learn the westward bound emigrant knew he was making history.

According to William N. Byers, founder and editor of Denver’s pioneer newspaper, the Rocky Mountain News, in August 1859 Henry Allen, William M. Slaughter, Richard Sopris and himself met in a hotel at Eleventh and Market (then Ferry and Fourteenth Streets) and associated as a pioneer society. Byers later stated all records of that first meeting were lost.³ Smiley, in his History of Denver (1901), added Dr. L. J. Russell, founder of Auraria, and J. H. Dudley to the list of pioneers who attended that meeting.⁴ The association did not endure because its members were too busy with the events of those critical years.

The pioneers next convened on 23 June 1866 for a banquet at the Pacific House at the Corner of Larimer and 16th Street.⁵ Present were Dr. Adams, Joseph L. Bailey, William N. Byers, William Graham, Andrew Hiveley, Alexander Cameron Hunt, H. R. Hunt, John S. Jones, Samuel M. Logan, A. McFadden, J. W. McIntire, William H. Morgan, Dr. J. H. Morrison, Daniel C. Oakes, Charles C. Post, John J. Riethmann, Alonzo G. Rhoads, John Robinson, Henry J. Rogers, John Q. A. Rollins, Andrew Sagendorf, F. Z. Saloman, Nelson Sargent, George C. Schleier, William M. Slaughter, E. B. Sopris, Richard Sopris, Lewis N. Tappan and Edmund A. Willoughby.

They elected as their officers Daniel C. Oakes, President, M. B. Houghton of Weld County, Vice President, H. R. Hunt, Recording Secretary, William N. Byers, Corresponding Secretary and Henry J. Rogers, Treasurer.

Officers were also elected for each of the counties in Colorado. They were C. L. Tourtelotte, Boulder, Lafayette Head, Conejo, George A. Bute, El Paso, William M. Slaughter, Gilpin, W. A. H. Loveland, Jefferson, Henry R. Chubbuck, Larimer, Robert B. Willis, Pueblo, John S. Jones, Clear Creek, Captain Hendren, Costillo, William H. Green, Fremont, James S. Gray, Huerfano, Robert L. Berry, Lake, H. A. W. Tabor, Park, and W. P. Pollock, Summit.

The Rocky Mountain News for 27 June 1866 announced that all Colorado pioneers were invited to appear in a body at the 4th of July celebration where they would be honored with a fifty-nine-gun salute. Badges identifying them as pioneers were to be picked up at Pacific House. Not ten years had passed since the 1858 discovery of gold!⁶

There is no known reference to further meetings of the organization until the winter of 1871-1872 when the pioneers reconvened. The following notice appeared in the Rocky Mountain News, 14 January 1872:

There will be a meeting of pioneers of 1858 and 1859 to organize an association of the old pioneers of the Territory, Wednesday evening, January 16, 1872, at 7 o'clock at Cutler's Hall, in West Denver.⁷

Twenty-seven old settlers assembled and elected Anselm H. Barker as Chairman and Oliver J. Goldrick as Secretary. Byers addressed the group and suggested they pattern their organization after that of the 1849 California pioneer society. A committee of three, on motion of Mr. Byers, was appointed to draft a constitution. Six days later, at a second meeting at Cutler's Hall, Byers, William M. Slaughter and W. J. Curtice presented the draft of the constitution. About sixty pioneers were present to receive the report of the committee.⁸

The draft, with some amendments, was adopted and the election of officers resulted in the choice of Hiram P. Bennett, President, J. H. Morrison, First Vice President, Richard Sopris, Second Vice President, William N. Byers, Secretary, Frederick Z. Salomon, Treasurer, John L. Dailey, Marshall, James M. Broadwell and John Armor, Directors.

The first Constitution and By-Laws limited membership in the Society to all males who had arrived in what was then the Territory of Kansas prior to December 31, 1859. The name adopted was The Society of Colorado Pioneers.

No meetings were held from February 1872 until March 1876 when the Society began meeting regularly in the Probate Court Rooms located in the Hughes Building at 17th and Curtis Streets.⁹ At the 10 March 1876 meeting, the Constitution was amended to admit to membership all those who arrived in Colorado during the year 1860. The Denver Daily News, 22 July 1876, reported the organization marched in the 4th of July parade in “full regalia” and enjoyed a basket picnic at the park along the banks of the South Platte River. Full regalia for the President consisted of a blue sash trimmed with gold bullion. The sashes of the other officers, also blue, were trimmed with silver bullion. In addition, officers and members wore a badge – a rosette of red, white and blue, three inches in diameter. In the center of the badge was a silver “P”.

The annual meeting of the Society was held in 1877. As no quorum was present, the meeting was adjourned. They met again, however, according to the Rocky Mountain News, 27 January 1878, in the Probate Court rooms, Hughes Building, to elect officers. The purpose of the meeting was to plan for the address to be delivered at the semi-annual meeting in June.

Officers elected at that meeting were Richard Sopris, President, D. H. Moffat, Jr., 1st Vice-President, C. S. Birdsall [sic], 2nd Vice-President, O. J. Goldrick, Secretary, John L. Dailey, Treasurer, D. C. Collier of Central City and A. Brookfield of Boulder, Directors.

At a board meeting in the office of the then Mayor of Denver, Richard Sopris, 20 December 1880, plans for a large-scale reunion and banquet were proposed. On 3 January 1881, the board met in the County Court Rooms and formulated a request for all members to write their recollections. The pioneers also were urged to furnish a photograph of themselves to be preserved in the archives of the society.¹⁰

During this period, other pioneer societies were organized in Colorado. Minute Book 1A:27 of the parent society shows that in 1881 the Fremont County Pioneer Society elected as their officers Anson Rudd, President, J. H. Terry, Vice-President, Eugene Weston, Secretary, W. A. Helm, Treasurer, R. J. Frazier, Marshall, and A. D. Cooper and Jesse Frazer, Directors.

The Society of Colorado Pioneers continued to meet as an association until 14 July 1884 when they incorporated under Colorado law. On 27 June 1887, Articles of Incorporation and a code of By-Laws were adopted in lieu of the original 1872 constitution.

The collection of photographs was donated to the Colorado Historical Society 25 June 1927, Book 4:269 and “Sons of Colorado Bulletin” Nos. 1-4, July 1928-November 1929. The photograph collection did not survive intact, but is dispersed throughout the subject collection.

Upon admission to the organization, the founding members signed the Constitution and By-Laws and paid dues of $2.50. All female pioneers who arrived in Colorado prior to 1 January 1861 were eligible as honorary members and exempt from dues.

Board meetings of the Society were held from 16 January 1885 to January 1887 in one of the court rooms at Denver's new City Hall completed in 1883 at the foot of Larimer Street along the east bank of Cherry Creek. On 28 January 1887, they met in the office of the Society's secretary, David S. Mitchell. With one exception of a meeting at Mammoth Gardens on East Colfax Avenue, subsequent meetings were held either in the City Hall or the office of the secretary, David S. Mitchell until 11 December 1893.

On 8 January 1894, the Board met at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at Arapahoe and 15th Streets. They next met January 23rd at the Mining Exchange Building. Two last meetings, one at City Hall on January 25th and the other on February 5th at the office of the Vice President John L. Dailey, were held before the Society's new headquarters and club rooms in Room 309 in the Charles Block were ready for occupancy.¹¹

The Rocky Mountain News, 17 October 1895, noted that at general membership meetings, held on the second Monday of January and the second Monday of July each year, the large attendance was characterized by good fellowship and the exchange of fraternal greetings and reminiscences. At their headquarters and clubrooms, at almost any hour, according to the News, members gathered to play cards, talk, smoke, sleep and expectorate.

Enjoyment of their quarters was temporarily dampened on 10 August 1927 when a letter of complaint from Burt D. Mason, building agent, was received. Mason charged there were some persons loafing around who were not members of the Society. Some of those same persons, he further complained, seemed to have nothing to do but play cards and use loud and many times vulgar language. This offended patrons and employees of other tenants, particularly ladies. Mason was particularly disappointed in view of the fact that the Society's clubrooms were provided free of charge.

On 31 July 1928, the Society was asked by the management to move from Room 309 to Room 612. The reasons for this do not appear in the Minutes and the Society continued to enjoy their new club rooms until just before 23 June 1939 when the Charles Block was razed. They were then offered Room 516 in the Quincy Building until their new headquarters were completed in the Johnson Building on the Northwest corner of 17th and Glenarm Street.¹²

¹¹ The Charles Block was built by John Q. Charles in 1880 and stood on the southeast corner of 15th and Curtis Streets. Leonard Cutshaw was the architect. The building was razed on 23 June 1939.

¹² The Johnson Building was designed by Frank E. Edbrooke and Company in 1890. This building was demolished in 1975.

One of the Society's Constitutional obligations was to provide financial assistance for those pioneers who had fallen upon bad times, died without funds or friends, or needed assistance with medical bills. The responsibility rested with the women of the Society. The first benevolent payment of eighty-six dollars covered the funeral expenses of an indigent pioneer member, John S. Jones of Boulder, who died 10 July 1876.

As the pioneers succumbed to age and ill-health, it was discovered that the number of pioneers needing aid was increasing. Mrs. Loren W. Cutler consulted with David S. Mitchell, a prominent pioneer attorney and officer of the Society of Colorado Pioneers, who suggested she form a benevolent society. In September 1889, the pioneer's wives organized as a women's auxiliary. Charter members were Mesdames William N. Byers, Birks Cornforth, Loren W. Cutler, John F. Henderson, Alvin McCune, Charles H. McLaughlin, H. W. Michael, David Mitchell, R. Mosely, Alonzo G. Rhoads, Andrew Sagendorf, Richard Sopris, H. A. W. Tabor (Augusta) and Mrs. Justina Trankle.¹³

At the onset of the nationwide economic panic of 1893 and the subsequent depression, the treasury was sorely taxed by the havoc wrought upon the old-timers. Names of the pioneer pensioners receiving benevolent payments were not made public, but those recipients listed in the Minutes are noted in this work. There is some evidence that the Society owned and supported a home for ill and indigent pioneers. However, the few references to the facility as found in the records seem to fall in the jurisdiction of the ladies and do not fall within the scope of this work.

On 29 March 1894, when the women's auxiliary incorporated, there were over 150 on the rolls. The objects of the society were to extend aid and relief to the families of the pioneers, to provide proper burial for the members of the families of pioneers, and to encourage the cultivation of social and fraternal relations between its members. In a speech delivered to the Pioneer Ladies Aid Society at their banquet on 15 December 1898, William N. Byers remarked that, while men did most of the organizing, they left it up to the women to do the work. That, he admitted, was why the men were guests that night of the Pioneer Ladies.¹⁴ The Society reincorporated in 1934 as the Pioneer Women of Colorado.

Every year, the pioneers held their annual banquet or picnic, often meeting at Elitch Gardens; but, during the course of each passing year, the pioneers assembled under less happy circumstances. These solemn gatherings, red, white and blue badges draped in black, were called for the purpose of attending the funeral of a deceased member. The Rocky Mountain News, 20 October 1881, noted that the "old sinners" were fast passing away. In the Minutes, the secretary often added poignant notations, acknowledging that "one by one we are going down the valley," or "one by one we are crossing the bar." Frederick J. Stanton, a charter member, was inspired to write:

¹³ Smiley: 784.

¹⁴ Denver Times. 16 December 1898, 11:1

*One by one, the autumn leaves
And the "old time" braves are falling:
Gather them gently,
Gather them softly
The path of empire was their trail,
Into the valley—over the range.*

Several adjacent lots at Riverside Cemetery were purchased by the Society members. If the deceased was to be buried in one of the plots, the mourners boarded the train with the casket for the final journey. By 1920, all of the 1872 members had "crossed over."

Although on 3 August 1906 articles of incorporation were renewed and made perpetual, membership fluctuated. To offset losses, eligibility rules were sometimes changed, and, at the annual meeting of 8 January 1906, sons of pioneers were declared eligible as members. There were restrictions, however. The sons could not hold any except minor offices as long as any original pioneers were able to fill them. This resulted in tension and resentment and, subsequently, in the organization of another group dedicated to preserving Colorado pioneer history.

In June 1906, the new organization, Sons of Colorado, published their first volume of Colorado history and pioneer memoirs, Sons of Colorado, soon changed to The Trail edited by Will C. Bishop. The last publication appeared as Bulletin #4, November 1929 with Albert B. Sanford as editor.

Eligibility for membership in this organization was restricted to all white males of good moral character who were residents of the Territory of Colorado prior to August 1876 and all white males of good moral character, if born in Colorado, when they attained the age of 21 years. Their slogan was "For Colorado." Periodically they, too, considered joining forces with the Society of Colorado Pioneers. However, the sense of independence of both groups, underscored by mutual resentment, caused the defeat of the proposed mergers.

On 14 November 1930, at a regular meeting of the Sons of Colorado, because the ranks of their society were diminishing to the vanishing point, they again proposed consolidation with the older Society and suggested that all men who came to Colorado prior to 1 January 1871 be known as Colorado Pioneers, and those pioneers not eligible be known as Sons of Pioneers. Qualifications for membership were to be amended on 9 January 1933 to include all white males who were born or resided in Colorado prior to 1 August 1876, or any of their male descendants.

In the meantime, as the memories of the pioneers waned, their accounts waxed. Many of their recollections tended to rewrite Colorado history. The spirit of the truth was probably there, however, and who could fault these men and women who contributed so much toward the greening of the Colorado prairies.

Carlos W. Lake, as the Society neared its end, described his fellow pioneers as “old dealers, new dealers, honest dealers and crooked dealers.”¹⁵ There was Wolfe Londoner, friend and fellow prankster of Eugene Field, whose famous “cyclone cellar” was known to Denver newspaper men and many visitors. Many met with a cyclone at home because of a visit to that cellar.¹⁶ John D. “Jack” Howland, his hat careened at a slight angle, walked with a military step, his Grand Army button always gleaming in his lapel.¹⁷ Big-boned, square-jawed, square-brained Judge James B. Belford was called the “Red-headed Rooster of the Rockies.”¹⁸ Banker Joseph A. Thatcher credited flattery and vanity for keeping him youthful. “When I am told that I look young,” he said, “I always straighten up my shoulders and step quicker.”¹⁹ Judge Marshall Silverthorn of Breckenridge, Judge of the Miner’s Court in 1859, was described as a diminutive man, almost dried to a crackling, with grizzly gray hair and beard. When he told a border tale he would go into grotesque convulsions of laughter, kicking up his feet until he resembled a jack-knife half open.²⁰

In 1943, the last president of the Society, Joseph H. Block, wrote:

On account of the membership being depleted by the death of practically all of the pioneer men and the failure of the sons to carry on, it was decided on February 27, 1943, to affiliate with the Pioneer Women of Colorado, an active and growing concern.

The proposal was later ratified by the unanimous vote of both organizations and the two groups were reorganized and incorporated on 22 November 1943, under the laws of Colorado, as The Pioneer Men and Women of Colorado.

The last regular meeting of the Society was held 27 March 1943 in the Bank Block, Room 302. Present were Joseph H. Block, President, Carlos W. Lake, Honorary President, J. J. Vick Roy, Treasurer, Mrs. Teresita De Harport, President of the Pioneer Women, Mrs. Lines, Treasurer of the Pioneer Women, and Mrs. J. Alexander Davidson. Joseph H. Block and J. Alexander Davidson were appointed as officers and representatives on the board. By unanimous consent, all monies and property of the Society of Colorado Pioneers were turned over to the new organization.

The last presiding Secretary of the Society of Colorado Pioneers ended the minutes that day with this notation:

¹⁵ Pioneer Society Minute Books, 4:346i.

¹⁶ Alice Polk Hill. Colorado Pioneers in Picture and Story (Denver: Brock Haffner Press, 1915) :123.

¹⁷ Hill:192.

¹⁸ Hill:347

¹⁹ Hill:351.

²⁰ Hill:401.

Motion to adjourn sine die made by Vic Roy [Joseph J. Vickroy], seconded by Lake who said he had used the pioneer Headquarters for 25 years.

Adjourned.

So Goodbye Pioneers

J. A. Davidson, Secretary

Although the incorporation of the Society as a non-profit organization had been renewed in perpetuity on 3 August 1906, it did not survive the changes in the requirements for maintaining corporate status as of 1972. There being no one to file annual reports, the Society of Colorado Pioneers was declared defunct and inoperative by the Corporation Office of the Secretary of State of Colorado, on 29 December 1972.
