Muriel Sibell Wolle

Muriel Sibell Wolle was a nationally known Western author, artist, historian and lecturer. She was born in Brooklyn, New York, April 3, 1898. She received degrees in advertising and costume design from the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts and earned a diploma in art education from New York University. Later, she received a master's degree in English Literature from the University of Colorado.

She lived in Colorado for more than 50 years and for more than 40 years was a professor of fine arts at the University of Colorado.

Mrs. Wolle loved the West and quickly became more Western than many native sons. On trips of exploration, Mrs. Wolle always carried sketch pads and pencils, and with them recorded the scenes of crumbling buildings and weed-grown streets, many of which have almost disappeared. Later, she translated her quick sketches to watercolor paintings and filled in the fine details from memory.

To accompany the sketches, Mrs. Wolle provided interesting and accurate historical texts. The most widely known of her books, which went through 14 editions, was Stampede to Timberline. centered around the mining booms of Colorado.

Mrs. Wolle died in 1977 and the Western History Department received invaluable material from her estate, including nearly 2,000 pieces of original art. These works of art are listed in this volume.
