How to donate your papers or records to the ARCHIVES
Welcome to the Archives

Since 1935, the archival collections of the Denver Public Library Western History and Genealogy Department (WHG) have grown as the result of generous donations of rare and unique materials. The Library continues to welcome such gifts in order to enhance the research value and diversity of its collections. This guide will help answer your questions about what WHG collects and how to make a donation.

The Scope of the Collection

WHG is dedicated to collecting, preserving and sharing historical resources related to Colorado and the West, genealogy, environmental conservation and the 10th Mountain Division. We collect records from individuals, families, organizations, businesses and social movements that reflect our diverse and complex history.

Here's a list of the types of archival materials we collect:

For Individuals and Families (paper, audio-visual, and/or digital):
- Correspondence, personal and/or professional
- Articles written or edited
- Journals/Diaries
- Photographs (identified, unframed)
- Creative work/manuscripts
- Legislative/Campaign files
- Community involvement and advisory board activity
- Speeches

For Businesses and Organizations (paper, audio-visual, and/or digital):
- Correspondence
- Photographs (identified, unframed)
- Meeting minutes
- Reports
- Annual budget/financial information
- Brochures, fliers, programs
- Bylaws, organizational charts (governance documents)

Items accepted on limited basis:
- Books
- Scrapbooks
- Research files
- Newspaper clippings and/or publicity files
- Awards (certificates only, no trophies or plaques)
- Material culture and/or miscellaneous objects
- Architectural blueprints, drawings, sketches (architectural sets only)
- Art
- Maps
And here’s a list of the types of archival materials we do not collect:

- Duplicates copies of items already in the collection
- Blank forms
- Personnel files/Membership forms
- Records that include sensitive information, such as tax/financial records, account numbers, social security numbers, medical information
- Financial records (EXCEPT historical ledgers and financial planning documents/long-term budget plans)
- Tax files
- Moldy or damaged items
- Direct mail or mass mailings
- Voluminous clippings or old newspapers
- National or widely available publications
- Unidentified photographs, audio-visual material, or music
- Awards, plaques, trophies

How to Donate

1. Tell us about your donation - Please email or call Acquisitions Archivist Jamie Seemiller (jseemill@denverlibrary.org, 720-865-1817) to arrange a time to discuss your donation. If you live outside of the Denver metro area, you can email a box-level inventory and/or photos of your donation. Unsolicited drop-offs are not accepted

2. Staff Review Committee - All potential donations are reviewed by a committee on a monthly basis. Donors will be notified when a decision has been made by the Committee

3. Transfer - Once materials are accepted, we will arrange a time to transfer the materials to the library either by staff pickup, donor drop off, mail or electronic transfer

4. Gift Acknowledgement Form - During the transfer process, donors fill out a Gift Acknowledgement Form. This form transfers materials to the library to be reviewed and inventoried. The donor has the option to indicate if he/she would like items not retained by the library to be returned or if the library has the right to dispose of the material as it sees fit.

5. Inventory and Catalog Record - Once the materials are transferred, a box level inventory and a catalog record are created

6. Deed of Gift - Once the inventory is completed, a copy of the inventory and a Deed of Gift will be sent to the donor to be reviewed, signed and returned to the library. The Deed of Gift transfers legal ownership of the collection to the library.

7. Processing and Scanning - Donors may pay to have their collection processed and described in a finding aid. When we process a collection, we arrange and describe the collection in more detail than the initial inventory. The end result is a finding aid that is searchable online. We also can scan selected material for a fee. More information about scanning can be found on our website.
8. Appraisals or Storage - Library staff will not appraise collections, but we can provide you with contact information for individuals who can, for a fee, appraise your donation for tax purposes. We do not accept collections for the purposes of temporary or long-term storage. All collections must be formally donated to the library via a signed Deed of Gift.

9. Access - All our collections are cataloged and available in the Denver Public Library online catalog. You can access archival collections on Floor 5 of the Central Library. The Western History and Genealogy website has some excellent resources about doing archival research.

10. Adding to a collection - Donations to existing collections require an inventory (see #1) and are reviewed by the Staff Review Committee.

Frequently Asked Questions

What do you mean by a box level inventory?
A box-level inventory is a simple inventory that helps us understand what you would like to donate.

How much does it cost to process a collection?
Since every collection is in a different stage of organization and size, it is best to ask for a quote. Costs can range from $100 to $300 a box.

Can you scan the entire collection and make it available online?
We do not scan entire collections. We can scan and catalog select items in a collection for an additional scanning fee.

Can the library pay for shipping my collection?
We normally ask donors to pay for shipping, but will make exceptions on a case by case basis.

Who owns the collection once it is donated?
The Denver Public Library becomes the owner of the collection once it is donated and the Deed of Gift is signed by the donor. This allows the library to properly care for and provide access to the collection.
